There is no Corset on a par with a Redfern, not even one costing from two to three times the price. Redfern Models are conceded by fashion creators at home and abroad to excel in design and wearing qualities all other corsets—not only are they accurate in shape, but in appearance are dainty, with material soft and beautiful—chiffon-like in quality—that fits with the softness of kid.

JOLLY BATCHES MAKE MERRY

Annual Dinner of "Single Cussedness Society" at Country Club Moans and Groans Over Sad Lot: All Would Wed

When good fellows get together there is usually "something doing" and when the "good fellows" are bachelors there is a very decided "something" in the way of jollity. Those who live in the vicinity of the Grand canal on North Central Avenue testify there were sounds of revelry by night on Friday when the bachelors gave their annual stag dinner at the Country Club.

Power Conway, the genial president of the club, planned the campaign that revealed the "dark parts" in the lives of the members. The delicate mark of attention to each one required thought and a lot of bother but it was worth it for it was generally conceded a great and grand success. The only regret expressed was that the luncheon's many duties prevented him from responding to "Newspaper Notoriety" but it is said that he very gracefully side-stepped the issue on which he will be heard later in the season. Whether or not a rule of the Country club was broken is not known for it was impossible to learn if Justice Gabel had illustrated his remarks on "Should Raging Be Allowed in the Country Club?"

Secretary of State Sidney P. Osborn threw his hat in the ring and came forward as "Our Next Governor" with the unanimous support of every bachelor in the room. "I did it" declared Ned Craghton and though Mr. Craghton is an interesting and fluent speaker a few would like "to get wise" to the "how." Maitland Davies in "A Tenor Voice" told of the trials and tribulations of a musician. Joe Casson modestly responded to "Women I Have Known." "There Must Have Been a Reason," said Stephen Goodman so he gave away another one of the secrets. William Fickas gave an amusing list when called upon for "Closed Season—For What?" The wonderful versatility of Charles McArthur was demonstrated as he discussed equally well, "Gasoline, Grape Fruit, Hogs, Rag Time, Case Cars and Orange Blossoms." Charles McArthur, who had more exciting incidents in "A Trip to Roosevelt" than many a globe trotter on his most eventful tour. William Humbert's "When" was answered but still remains a question and no doubt would have been more satisfactorily answered had Mr. Humbert been Alexander Baker's "Noble Client." "Oh You" Bert Clingan said "his" and others who furnished fun were George Morse, "The Green Mountain Boy," Alphonse Page, "The Serenaders," E. H. Van Dorn, "People Who Live at the Y," Arthur Luhrs, "Married Contentment," Morris Kiepert, "South Side Society," J. Kiepert, "Ostriches and Other Bipedes," Donald Green, "A Little Bourbon," Charles O'Malley, "Reminiscences of the Past House," Kavanagh, "How to Sell a Desert Land at $200 an Acre," Hugh Cassidy, "Victory," Leroy A. Ladd, "The Governor's Secretary," Tom Trent, "Oh Honey Man," Stephen J. Jennings, "Yale Versus Harvard," J. H. Holten, "Mormon Agriculture," Frank Connelly, "How I Kissed the Blarney Stone," J. McElroy, "The Situation is Just This Year," A. E. Gutter, "How Love Me Trousters," Ide R. Miller, "Why I Am So Chatter," Cass Redwell, "Why I Have Never Married," Harry Hurley, "Ranching," Roy Murray, "Experiences in a Seaside Railway," Cecil Lewis, "The White Man," Walter Hege, "You Fallers," J. D. Cunningham, "Rhinoes," Hugh Marshall, "How I Managed the Lady," Fred Humphrey, "Does It Do to Be a Bachelor," M. Holmquist, "Municipal Grift," Lawrence Clark, "New Mexico," Paul Renaudieres, "A Bit of Mistletoe," and Avery Corpeisen, "The Mormon Widow." The club house was beautifully decorated in Christmas greenery and scarlet carnations an unimportant detail to the merry-makers. The "best" were the "best ever."

In arranging her program, Madame Tracy has selected several numbers never before heard in Phoenix. It is announced that several Saturday afternoon parties are being arranged to attend the concert, following this with late afternoon tea.

REMARKABLE YIELD OF MILO MAIZE

A Crop Especially Suited to the Salt River Valley.

During the last few years there has been a great increase in the amount of milo maize and kaffir corn grown in the salt river valley and it has been demonstrated that these non-saccharine sorghums are among the very best crops suited to this section. The grain from the milo maize, when fed to cattle with hay, producing almost as high a quality of beef as is found in the corn fed steers in Kansas.

An interesting illustration of the remarkable yield of milo maize in this section, is shown in the following statement of Mr. Lars Larsen, superintendent of the Bartlett-Heard Land & Cattle company, who was interviewed yesterday. Mr. Larsen stated as follows:

"We have one field in section 25 which measures 165 acres. On this field I planted the last of July, a crop of milo maize, sowing about seven pounds to the acre. I have just finished cutting the heads from this crop, which has been done under contract, every head having been weighed, and the total amount of grain from this 165 acre tract has been a little in excess of 190 tons or a production of 5548 pounds of grain per acre. In addition to this I have on the ground a large amount of forage which will do as rough feed for stock cattle."

"This milo maize grain is worth at a conservative value, $16 per ton so that with the above production of one and three-quarters tons per acre the summer crop alone yields a revenue of $28 per acre."

It is the introduction of such crops as the above particularly suited to the salt river valley, which is not only making the cattle feeding business a very satisfactory one here, but which illustrates, as has the development of the cotton industry, that we have not yet learned in the salt river valley the vast variety of crops which can be produced here successfully.

The best man and the bridegroom followed by the bride and the groom to their places under a bower of evergreens and white chrysanthemums, where the ring ceremony was used.

After the ceremony a light luncheon was served after which the happy couple left for California to visit the parents of the groom.
